

GREG POOLE

PROFILE

A graphic design and communications professional with a comprehensive background in the government, corporate, education, and non-profit sectors. Proven capacity to plan, produce and present graphic design and communications material for all forms of media, on time and within budget. Combines a broad base of training and experience in design, marketing, communications, media relations and media buying with extensive experience in community relations and corporate communications. International experience and cross-cultural training provide a keen ability to evaluate complex and sensitive issues in a global context. Equally effective working either on his own or in collaborative settings where his interpersonal and leadership traits come to the fore. Thrives, in particular, in deadline-driven environments. Dedicated, dependable, dynamic and adaptable.
